

L&M Educational Consultants Under New Management

1/01/09

Linda Massucci, founder of L&M Educational Consultants, has relinquished her title as president of L&M Educational Consultants. “I have decided to pass the responsibilities to a colleague who can devote more time to the company.” Miss Massucci will still have an advisor role during the next few months of the transition and complete assignments with present clients. “I am looking forward to concentrating on my writing- whether that be family sagas or educational articles for local newspapers.” Miss Massucci is represented by the Hartline Literary Agency. If you would like to learn about Linda’s current writing projects, please visit her website at www.lindamassucci.com